PRICE TWO CENTS

STUDY INITIAL G.A.R. BUDGET FOR CONCLAVE

S. of U. V. to Entertain State Groups Next June

Only a very slight amount above the original estimate of $1,200 will be needed for the seventy-seventh annual convention of the Grand Army of the Republic and affiliated organizations to be held here next June 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19, it was revealed last night at the meeting of the executive committee of the Sons of Union Veterans post of Gettysburg in charge of the event.

The decision of the committee was reached following a study of a tentative budget for the Sons of Union Veterans Reserve Encampment to be held in connection with the convention presented by Dr. Henry Stewart, chairman of the military committee for the event. The estimated expenses of the Reserves encampment were set at $700. The encampment will be held on the site occupied by the Veterans' camp during the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg held here two years ago.

Executives to Meet
It was announced by Jesse E. Snyder, general chairman for the executive committee, that a meeting will be held in Gettysburg during the middle of this month of the executives of the G.A.R. and affiliated organizations and the members of the local committee. Tentative plans for the summer convention will be completed at that time. The Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, which is co-sponsor with the Sons of Union Veterans, of the gathering, and which will raise the money necessary for the event, also will have representatives at the meeting to be held later this month.

Among the members of the S. of U. V. committee for the event are George Black, housing; William Meals, program and publicity; Jesse E. Snyder, badge; the Rev. L. B. Hafer, entertainment; W. Preston Hull, reception, and Dr. Henry Stewart, military. The executive committee will be augmented in the near future by representatives of the various affiliated organizations of the G.A.R. and the Sons of Union Veterans.

Allied Organizations
Among the affiliated organizations are the Sons of Union Veterans Reserves, the Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and Daughters of Veterans. The commander of the Gettysburg Sons of Veterans post, who at that time will be David A. Tawney, is a member ex-officio of the executive committee. Approximately 3,000 persons are expected to attend the sessions next summer.

At a regular meeting of the Sons of Veterans held prior to the executive committee sessions nominations were held for officers for the coming year and a report on the year's work of the graves committee was presented by Doctor Stewart, chairman of the graves committee.

David A. Tawney, present senior vice-commander was nominated for the post of commander, while W. Roy Starry, York Springs, was named to the post of senior vice commander. Other nominations included Lawrence Orswell, junior vice commander; J. E. Snyder, Hull, camp council; William Meals, secretary, and Arthur W. Warman, treasurer. The election of officers will be held December 20. The officers will be installed at the first meeting in January.

390 Markers Needed
The report of the graves committee revealed that during the last year it was found that 390 additional service markers will be needed to complete the marking of the graves of Civil war veterans in Adams county. The Adams county commissioners have been asked to supply the markers, Doctor Stewart stated, and it is expected that they will be in place by next Memorial Day. It was announced that the correction of the records of the county commissioners concerning the graves of Civil war veterans has been completed. The maps of approximately 12 larger cemeteries in the county have been completely redrawn to show the location of newly found graves and to correct errors made previously. Through additional checking of records and

28th Division to Start Year's Training Jan. 3; May Enlarge Local Unit

Motor Repair Unit Orders Issued by State Department Today

Company E of the 103rd Quartermaster Regiment of the National Guard — Gettysburg's motor repair unit — is at full maintenance strength of 33 enlisted men and three officers with Captain Ralph Keckler in command.

Early orders are expected to be received here directing that the unit be increased to "peace time strength" of 72 men and three officers. The company now has about 15 men on its reserve list. Definite orders on the status of the men on the reserve list with respect to the forthcoming orders for a year's special duty have not been received.

SCOUTS MAY USE DEER HIDES TO MAKE ARTICLES

Products Would Be Given to Army, Navy

A new answer has been proposed to the question that confronts each successful deer hunter every year—what to do with the deer hide.

Attention of the deer hunting army is brought to the fact that it may contribute to the national defense program in a unique and effective way by salvaging the deer hides taken during the current season, having them tanned, and turning the finished product over to the Boy Scouts of America for the making of useful articles to be contributed to those in the military and naval forces of the nation.

A similar program already is in operation successfully in Canada. The Pennsylvania State Game commission has given enthusiastic approval to the plan for this state. Scout officials have added their sanction.

Scout leaders have pointed out that besides saving large numbers of deer skins that are wasted annually, the plan will offer to many Scouts an opportunity to win merit badges in leather work and handicraft and at the same time will bring the manufacture of belts, jackets, pouches and a dozen other articles that will be of use to the men in the service of the nation.

The state Game commission has recommended that Scout leaders get in touch with the officers of the local sportsmen's organizations to work out the best plans for gathering the skins in this section. Reasonable cost for tanning could be secured if large numbers of the skins are handled, it has been pointed out.

With the Hunters

Four Adams county hunters returned Thursday from a four-day deer hunting trip to Germania, Potter county. Each succeeded in shooting bucks. They were Floyd King and Curtis Herring, both of Orrtanna, eight and seven-point bucks, respectively, and Merle Welter and Arthur Sanders, both of Fairfield, six- and ten-point bucks, respectively.

Dale Wetzel and Peter Shindler, both of Orrtanna, R. D., each shot a doe Friday on the McGeorge farm, near Orrtanna, where they were employed cutting wood.

Paul Wetzel, Orrtanna R. D., shot a 100-pound doe in the D. M. Sheely orchard, Orrtanna R. D., Thursday.

Jay Johnson, East Middle street; John W. Bream, Orrtanna, and Frank Wilson, of York, have returned from a hunting trip to Potter county. Mr. Johnson shot a seven-point buck weighing 140 pounds while his hunting mates each shot does.

Charles Williams and E. Ray Williams, both of McKnightstown, have returned home after a successful deer hunting trip to Lycoming county. Charles shot an eight-point buck weighing 150 pounds and E. Ray a 12-pound doe. Both kills were made Monday.

Sheriff Dan Wolff, hunting with Camp 18 on Big Flat, shot a six-point buck on Friday. He has been with the camp all week.

Melvin Warren, Arendtsville, proprietor of the Warren Chevrolet Sales garage on York street, brought down a 12-point buck on Big Flat Friday as a member of Camp 18 after returning earlier in the week from an unsuccessful trip to Tioga county.

Late Flashes

San Francisco, Dec. 7 (AP)—The sweep of California's epidemic of mild influenza seemed to be leveling off today, but apparently the disease was affecting increasingly large numbers of persons in Washington state and Oregon. Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—In an exchange of messages with King George II, President Roosevelt today pledged aid to Greece.

3-Story Building Being Added to Local Museum

George D. Rosensteel, owner-director of the Gettysburg National museum, recently announced an extensive museum building and renovation program for the winter months. The program, including an addition to the original structure and a new front, calls for completion by April 1, 1941.

The new addition will be a three-story brick building seventy feet long and thirty-two feet wide. The first story is to be divided between a souvenir store, gift shop, pottery exhibit and free museum, while the remainder of the structure will be made into apartments for the accommodation of museum staff members. The new museum section will contain Gettysburg Civil war relics. Rosensteel stated that most of these relics have been in storage and never before have been displayed.

The former store is at present being renovated and, in the near future, the old front will be demolished to be replaced by a new one modeled along architectural lines common to the Civil war period.

LOCAL CAR STOLEN

The 1936 black Ford sedan of Carl West, 31 Mummaburg street, was stolen from Pennville at the edge of Hanover Friday evening while West's daughter, Virginia, was appearing in an amateur show in the Pennville engine house.

ITALY REPLACES COMMANDER OF STRATEGIC ISLES

Greeks Reported Ready to Enter Argiostro

(By the Associated Press)
Harassed by the Greeks, Italy made another change in her high command today, replacing Brigadier General Cesare Maria De Vecchi Count Di Val Cismon, commander of the Aegean forces and governor of the strategic Dodecanese islands, with General Ettore Bastico, commander of the army of the Po.

Meanwhile, Italian forces were reported to have abandoned Agriostro, leaving parts of the inland Albanian base in flames. Dispatches from the front said the Greek troops, advancing on Agriostro from several directions, had established contact preparatory to occupation.

Second Italian Change
There was no official comment on what the Italian change meant, but its importance was not lessened by the fact that the man who relinquished his command was one of the highest ranking fascists in Italy, a World war veteran who took part in the march on Rome in 1922.

His resignation came twenty-four hours after Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, had resigned to be succeeded by General Ugo Cavallero.

Badoglio's resignation was not unexpected. De Vecchi's came as a distinct surprise to Italians. The British broadcasting corporation announced shortly after De Vecchi's resignation was made public that neutral sources were saying General Cavallero was going to confer soon with General Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command.

Another announcement, indicative of the effects the war is having on Italy after only six months of participation, was made in Rome: Decree of imprisonment for a year and confiscation of crops for any Italian farmer who withholds his products from compulsory storage.

Food Situation Serious
A United States Department of Agriculture report a week ago emphasized the seriousness of the food situation in Italy because of the British blockade and observed that the poorer classes are facing malnutrition. Spaghetti, rice and flour have been added to the ration lists.

A sharp Nazi air attack on a "southwestern" English city, presumably Bristol, killed an undetermined number of persons and caused considerable property damage last night. The raid coincided with temporary failure of cable facilities between London and New York.

Western Union, whose services were interrupted for more than six hours, regained cable contact with London late last night and said that "trouble" had been encountered in the land section of the line in the Bristol area.

The British reported that the raid, elsewhere, was not on a large scale. London reported no bombings at all.

The full story of the naval battle in the South Atlantic between a masked German sea raider and the 20,122-ton British armed merchant cruiser Carnarvon Castle was awaited today in Montevideo, Uruguay.

The Carnarvon Castle radioed last night to report her intention of putting into that port for repairs and also to say that the Nazi craft's superior speed enabled the raider to escape after a "stern chase."

Junior Red Cross to Hold Bazaar Dec. 10-11

The Junior Red Cross of Adams county which annually makes thousands of toys of all descriptions, novel Christmas tokens, greetings, joke books and other articles for distribution at Christmas time will conduct a bazaar from December 10 to 14 when surplus articles will be sold and the money used by the Red Cross to buy glasses for needy children.

The bazaar will be conducted in the Adams County Automobile Association office, centred square. Miss Margaret McIlhenny, Junior Red Cross secretary for Adams county, said the bazaar will not interfere with the sending of Christmas boxes to institutions which are brightened annually by the handiwork of county school children.

Report Greeks Take Another Base

Yugoslavian reports said Greek troops had occupied Argirocastro (3) while Greece claimed capture of Porto Edda (4). Athens also asserted the last Italians had been ousted from the Pogradetz mountain area (1) and the Greek advance was continuing. Gains were claimed also west of Premet (2). PHILLIPS WILL 200 IN 7 YORK REPLY MONDAY TOWNSHIPS JOIN TO MORGANTHAU COOPERATIVE

On Form of British Member Campaigns Proposals to the United States Also Underway in 4 Other Counties

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—A series of blunt questions put by Secretary Morgenthau set Sir Frederick Phillips, undersecretary of the British treasury, to work at the British embassy today on a detailed accounting of his country's assets for waging war with Germany.

On the answers, which Phillips is expected to deliver to the United States treasury chief Monday, may depend the form and timing of any proposals for the United States to bolster Britain's fight with American dollars.

While no officials here are on record with commitments for extension of loans or other financial aid to the British, it was generally accepted in both administrative and congressional circles that consideration of such assistance was the primary purpose of Phillips' visit.

His opening conference with Morgenthau yesterday was devoted to facts and devoid of policy considerations, he reported afterward.

REV. R. R. GRESH ACCEPTS CALL TO ST. JAMES PULPIT

York Minister Since 1933 Notifies Local Church Council

In a letter received here this morning, the Rev. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church in York since 1933, notified the church council of St. James Lutheran church of his decision to accept the unanimous call the local congregation extended to him at a congregational meeting last Sunday morning.

The letter of acceptance came to Norman W. Storrick, secretary of the church council.

The Rev. Mr. Gresh, in a telephone conversation this morning with a Gettysburg Times reporter, stated he will submit his resignation to St. Peter's church on Sunday. The effective date, which probably will be about the middle of January, has not been decided. The Rev. Mr. Gresh expects to confer with St. James church council on that point.

Parsonage Renovated
A completely renovated parsonage awaits the Rev. and Mrs. Gresh here. The interior and exterior have been re-painted, floors sanded, new plumbing installed and the kitchen has been modernized. It is ready for occupancy. During the period the church has been without a pastor since the Rev. Spencer W. Aungst, Sea Isle City, New Jersey, resigned, improvements have been made in the church building, also. Sunday school room floors have been re-finished.

The Rev. Mr. Gresh was reared at Obelisk, Montgomery county, and in 1916 was graduated from a musical course at Perkiomen preparatory school. The next year he graduated from the classical course of that institution and taught school for two years in Frederick township of Montgomery county. He was graduated from Muhlenberg college in 1922 and in 1926 from the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary. He is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

His first charge was at the Church of the Redeemer in Harrisburg where he served from 1926 to 1933 when he accepted a call to St. Peter's church in York.

He was ordained as a minister by the East Pennsylvania Synod.

President of Synod
The Rev. Mr. Gresh was secretary of the West Pennsylvania Synod before the re-organization and after it became a conference succeeded the Rev. Dwight F. Putman, Gettysburg, as the conference president. Recently at a conference session at Bolling Springs he was re-elected to the presidency for another year. Mrs. Gresh, the former Katherine Weida, of Montgomery county, has been active in women's organizations in the synod and conference. She is serving her third year as president of the Women's Missionary society of the West Pennsylvania Conference.

The couple does not have any children.

Mid-West Gets Three Places on 1940 Associated Press All-America

Midlands Get 10 on Squad, South and East Seven Each

By HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Boasting the greatest concentration of football talent in its history, the Middle West dominates the 16th annual All-America team, selected today by The Associated Press on the basis of a nationwide survey of expert opinion.

Led by the powerful Western Conference where Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern set a rapid pace, the Mid-West places three men on the first team and ten men, all told, on the All-America squad of 33, divided among first, second and third teams.

Trailing the Midlands are the South and East, with seven players each on the full squad; the Southwest and Far West with four each, and the Rocky Mountain sector with one.

Completing another season of spectacular play, four members of the 1939 All-America ensemble are selected again—Tom Harmon, Michigan's sensational halfback; John Kimbrough, smashing fullback of the Texas Aggies; Nick Drahos, Cornell's great tackle, and Paul Severin, North Carolina end.

Serving with Kimbrough and Harmon in the backfield are Frank Albert, Stanford's clever field general, and George Franck, speedy halfback of Minnesota's undefeated juggernaut.

Filling out the line positions are Edwin (Buddy) Elrod of Mississippi State as Severin's running mate at end; Bob Reinhard of California, serving with Drahos at tackle; Bob Suffridge of Tennessee and Warren Alfson of Nebraska at the guard posts, and Chet Gladchuk, huge Boston College star, at center.

ing Kimbrough gets but I'll tell you that he makes as much without aid as he does with it. He has drive that ordinary football players can't stop.

A great team player, Kimbrough also is a defensive standout, both on pass defense and as a line-backer. Offensively, he has gained about four yards per plunge, and in the Aggies' first eight games carried the ball 139 times, about 50 more than any other ball carrier in the Southwest conference; caught nine passes for 69 yards; intercepted six for 142 yards; returned punts and kickoffs for 138 yards, and scored 42 points. He played 409 of a possible 480 minutes.

Albert, field general for the All-America backfield, is the key man in the trick offense Clark Shaughnessy has taught Stanford and which has had the Far West in a dither all season.

Albert Does Everything

ALBERT kicks off, does the punting, kicks the extra points, and handles the ball on almost every play from the old-fashioned tight-up-against-center position which features Shaughnessy's "T" formation. He calls the plays, does practically all the passing, runs with the ball occasionally and is a good blocker and fine defensive player.

When fullback Norman Standlee was hurt, Albert took over punting duties for the balance of the season. Against Washington, a vital game, he averaged 52.6 yards even though one kick was angled intentionally out of bounds for a net gain of only 14 yards. Although he weighs only 170 pounds, he is tough and strong as his record of 407 out of a possible 480 minutes in eight games shows.

Franck earned the fourth backfield place only after stern competition from all sectors with Bruce Smith, his Minnesota teammate, among the leading challengers. On the whole, however, Franck rated as the most valuable all-around performer on the Gopher team which swept through a gruelling schedule without a setback. A dangerous break-away runner, exceptionally fleet of foot, Franck was a standout except in the Ohio State game when he seldom carried the ball and was used principally as field general.

Twice during the season, Franck ran kickoffs for touchdowns and for the season as a whole he averaged better than five yards every time he carried the ball. Several rivals kicked off out of bounds to keep the ball away from him. Leading punter in Western Conference, his kicking was of immense value to Minnesota, as illustrated in the 7-6 victory over Michigan. Four times his out-of-bounds kicks put Michigan in a hole, one punt, going outside on the one-foot line.

Many Good Backs

GOOD backs were plentiful all through the middle west with such stellar performers as Paul Christman of Missouri, Harry Hopp of Nebraska, Ollie Hahnstein of Northwestern, Hal Hursh of Indiana, Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame, Don Scott of Ohio State, and such fullbacks as George Paskvan of Wisconsin, Bill Green of Iowa, Bob Westfall of Michigan, John Petty of Purdue and Milt Pieplig of Notre Dame.

Kimbrough stood unchallenged in the southwest unless it was by his own team-mate, Jim Thomason, and Preston Johnston of Southern Methodist. Jack Crain, the Texas flash, started out in spectacular fashion but was injured in mid-season and never recovered his form.

In the far west, Jim Kisselburgh, Oregon State, was the fullback; standout after Stanford's Standlee was hurt, and none could dispute the all-around ability of such men as Dean McAdams of Washington, Bill Sewell of Washington State, and Bob Robertson of Southern California.

Charley O'Rourke, great passer from Boston College, and Francis Xavier Reagan of Penn were the eastern leaders in a field that also included George Kracum of Pitt, Walter Matuszek and Mort Landsberg of Cornell, Andy Tomasic of Temple, Bill Busik of Navy, Henry Toczyowski of Boston College, Hank Masur of Army, Dave Allardice of

In the south, it was Bob Fox of Tennessee, Bill Dudley of Virginia, Jim Lalanee of North Carolina, Jimmy Nelson of Alabama, Junie Hovious and Merle Hapes of Mississippi, Ned McGowan of Auburn, Steve Lach of Duke, Harvey Johnson of Mississippi State, Jim Thibault of Tulane and Tony Galovich of Wake Forest who set the pace.

Elrod Outstanding

END play this year was not up to the standard of other seasons but Elrod, a main cog in the tough left side of Mississippi State's powerful line, would have been a stand-out in any company. He rates as one of the greatest defensive wing-men the South ever has seen and that section has seen some great ones.

A good pass-catcher, brilliant downfield blocker and savage, sure tackler, Elrod suffered a fracture of two bones in his right hand in mid-season yet played out the season as sensationally as he had begun it. For two full seasons, he never was circled or run over for a first down. Opposing backs have lost more ground at his end than they have gained, an extraordinary record.

It was not until the Duke game that Severin clinched his place on the All-America for the second year in succession. Troubled by injuries in several mid-season games, the North Carolina star came back with a smashing finish. It was his magnificent defensive play that saved North Carolina in the unexpected victory over Duke and the close tussle with Virginia.

Pressing hard on the heels of Elrod and Severin were Dave Rankin, Purdue's steady veteran; Loren MacKinney of Harvard, Bill Jennings of Oklahoma and Ed Frutig of Michigan. Not far behind were Charley Anderson of Ohio State, Archie Harris of Indiana, Al Bartholmey of Yale, Hugh Barber of Columbia, Joe Blalock of Clemson, Alex Urban of South Carolina, Gene Goodrealt of Boston College, Holt Reid of Alabama, Bob Ison of Georgia Tech, Alva Kelley of Cornell, Jay McDowell of Washington, Don Vosberg of Marquette and Ed Cifers of Tennessee.

Drahos Back

FOR several reasons, probably mostly psychological, Cornell's great outfit ran into two defeats at the end of the season but no blame for these could be attached to the Big Red's great tackle, Nick Drahos, who retains his All-America place without dispute.

Equally potent on offense or defense, this husky 212-pounder has been a Cornell mainstay for two seasons, a steady influence on the whole team. For the season as a whole, he played 433 out of a possible 480 minutes although appearing only 22 minutes in the Yale game. He was a 60-minute performer against Syracuse, Ohio State, Columbia, Dartmouth and Penn. There are few more consistent place-kickers, his record this year showing 20 of 24 attempted extra points.

His All-America running mate, California's Reinhard, is one of the greatest linemen developed in the Far West in recent years. Tough as they come (he played 480 of a possible 480 minutes in the first 8 games). Reinhard not only is a great defensive star but a crack punter, averaging around 40 yards. Although he never had kicked before this season, he averaged 47.7 yards against Washington in out-booting the Huskies' great punter, Dean McAdams. Three of Reinhard's punts were out of bounds inside the ten yard line in the game, otherwise his average would have been around 53 yards.

Back of Drahos and Reinhard come such stellar tackles as Fred Hartman of Rice, Tony Ruffa of Duke, Alf Baughman of Northwestern, Joe Ungerer of Fordham, and a host of others including Abe Shires of Tennessee and Fred Davis of Alabama, Forest Behm of Nebraska, Al Blozis of Georgetown, Mike Enich of Iowa, Andy Fronczek of Richmond, Urban Odson of Minnesota, and Vic Sears of Oregon State.

Close Choice at Guards

THE guard positions go to Suffridge and Alfson after a brisk debate with Marshall Foch Robertson of Texas A. & M., generally rated the outstanding lineman in the southwest.

Back in the form of his sophomore year when he was selected for the third team, Suffridge was outstanding in every game Tennessee played and far over-shadowed his running mate, Ed Molinski, an All-America selection a year ago. Exceptionally speedy and gifted with split-second muscular coordination, Suffridge was a terror all season on defense and offense. One of his greatest performances came in the sensational game with Alabama.

Alfson was the key figure in Nebraska's crack line, a quiet, workmanlike player who did his job without fanfare but with superlative skill. He always seemed to be in the right spot at the right time, not solely because of his speed but also because of his skill in judging the opponent's offensive moves.

It was only by the thinnest of margins that Suffridge and Alfson got the call over Robnett, bulwark of the Texas Aggies' hard-bitten line, a burly, spectacular player who loves contact.

Other Good Guards

EXCELLENT guards were plentiful all along the line. Outstanding, among others, were Hunter Coher of Mississippi State, George Kerr of Boston College, Cecil Scheffel of Denver, Augie Lio of Georgetown, Joe Lokane of Northwestern, Ralph Fritz of Michigan, Harold Lahar of Oklahoma, Alex Winterson of Duke, Ray Frankowski of Washington Irving, Mendelson of Penn, Lou Conti of Cornell, George Poppin of Santa Clara and Lou Young of Dartmouth.

Competition was fiercest of all for center where Gladchuk, Boston's behemoth, won out in a sharp battle with such other pivot men as Rudy Mucha of Washington, Ray Apolskis of Marquette, Don Snively of Columbia, Leon Gajek of Penn State and Ray Fritz of Penn.

Six feet five inches tall and weighing more than 240, Gladchuk has cat-like agility and speed seldom seen in a man his tremendous size. He has been the Eagles' first-string center ever since the second game of his sophomore year. Gifted with a great sense of humor, he has the ability to relieve tense, younger players with his dry wit in tough situations. He is a steady influence on the line, a savage backer-up and a shrewd tactician of enemy plays. Mechanically he has few if any faults. He is an unerring passer, equally and consistently good on both offense and defense.

Hands Football to Opponent Who Scores

New York, Dec. 7 (AP) — This was a fine football season for oddities, with the most publicized of all the Cornell "fifth down" that resulted in the Ithacans conceding Dartmouth a 3-0 victory in a game Cornell apparently had won by 7-3. But the No. 1 screwball incident of the year, the prize plum culled from an annual Associated Press survey, came in the game between Hanover college of Indiana and Centre. The Hanover quarterback got the ball from center, spun and fed it to what he thought was his fullback — only to find he's given it to Jack Keeley of Centre, who was very much surprised but didn't let that stop him from going 25 yards to a touchdown.

The Army-Navy game ended with the south goal posts down and Army still due another play, since Navy had been offside on the last one. Bill Gillis, Army captain, solved the difficulty by declining the penalty. Tulane's trainer, Monk Simons, threw away a pair of faded green pants he'd worn for 20 years before the season started. The Greenies lost their first three games, and Simons dug up the pants again. Tulane won the next one. . . . Kansas made good an extra-point kick against Drake because the ball caromed off the headguard of a Drake lineman.

Coach Jimmy Phelan of Washington introduced a new wrinkle on receiving punts this fall. His safety men would signal for a fair catch, then take the ball on the bounce, which meant they could run with it. It caught opposing ends off guard.

GAME CANCELLED

The football game scheduled to be played between the Gettysburg Boys' club and a Police Boys' club in Washington, D. C. Sunday afternoon, has been cancelled by mutual agreement it was announced today by Manager Bill Ridinger of the local eleven.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE HISTORY OF THINGS
HOW interesting to know just how everything is made. It is one of the earliest—and most natural—of desires. Give a child a toy and he at once begins to find out how it is made. Why, he doesn't know.
Just instinct, perhaps, at his young age, but as he grows up, that urge has taken sound sense. It makes him an adventurer and a discoverer
—perhaps an inventor.

Who can have greater joy than the farmer who builds his own barn —perhaps taking from his own forest the logs that later beam and board the structure. Every time he walks into it, he feels himself meeting something that is akin to all his thoughts and all his efforts.
Each nail that has been driven,
each plan conceived, each shingle that gives shelter, is viewed and felt as an intimate.

The old buildings, with their wooden pegs, and the old foundations, so carefully set, have outlasted our modern methods, because workmen then put something of themselves into their creations. On my desk today came a circular from a furniture dealer. In it he offered the old example, in its original wood for $175.00. But the copy, in the same, the modern wood, and the piece an exact reproduction, he priced but $35.00. You see the old had a loving patina to it. It had historic and personal significance.

All early attempts are interesting because they picture the creative mind. A pioneer's hut is vastly more interesting than the modern business man's mansion.
Bob Ripley recently presented me with an old Peruvian silver vase.
I am told that it is more than 200 years old and it depicts a character who made history. I look upon it with admiration for it means so much more than any modern representation. And it tells me more than any book.
The most interesting thing about a human being is his background—his back history, for each step explains the man. Age is maturity—ripeness. The history of a thing is its explanation for existence.

Berlin, Dec. 3 (AP)—Heavy forces of police were concentrated Tues-

the fall opening being repeated.

When the Reichstag went into scenes marked the proceedings inside and rioters smashed windows outside.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest
PLEA FOR CHARACTER
Grant me this, dear Lord, to be Strong for tasks which fall to me;
Kind, when hunger finds my door,
Brave for all that lies before;
Grateful for Thy gifts bestowed,
Patient, when my pace is slowed;
Willing, when I can, to share
Burdens grim which others bear;
Gracious, when a touch of grace
May exalt the commonplace;
Gentle always when distress
May be soothed by gentleness;
Faithful always unto Thee,
And the cause of liberty.

White Stars
Of Christmas Shine
(By Emilie Poulson)
Next is the charming "White Stars
of Christmas Shine."
While stars of Christmas shine
Lighting the skies,
Let only loving looks
Beam from your eyes.
While bells of Christmas ring,
Joyous and clear,
Speak only happy words,
All love and cheer,
Give only loving gifts,
And in love take;
Gladden the poor and sad,
For love's dear sake.

TWO BILLIONS
SECRETLY USED BY TREASURY

Disclosure of Largest Financial Agency
in the World

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—
Officials pictured the treasury's $2-000,000,000 stabilization fund today as America's "secret weapon against totalitarian economic penetration."

The Credit to China
They described the fund in such language to explain why within the last week it had advanced credits of $50,000,000 each to China and Argentina. Additional transactions of like character could be expected, they indicated, particularly with Latin American countries.

The value of the fund as a secret economic weapon was, in their opinion, ample answer to criticisms such as the one made yesterday by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) charging these credits were violating the purposes of the fund.

China has been resisting a Japanese military invasion for years, they pointed out, and Germans with nazi sympathies have been reported active in Argentina and other Latin American republics.

Selling American Dollars Legally, the whole transaction is clothed in complicated terms of international finance, and the United States is lending nothing -- as far as the stabilization fund is concerned. Technically, the fund is merely selling American dollars to the Chinese for their yuan and to the Argentines for their pesos.

Secret Financial Agency
But the transactions were examples of the broad powers of one of the largest and most secret financial agencies in the world.
The fund was created on January 31, 1934, with $2,000,000,000 of the "profit" that the government made by the devaluation of the dollar the same day.

Only Morgenthau and Roosevelt Know Until recently, its activities were reported to no one but to the secretary of the treasury, and the President. Only to overcome congressional opposition against extending the life of the fund last year, did the treasury agree to make available quarterly balance sheets to show what was in the fund. These reports, however, are carefully based on three-month-old figures so that current operations will not be given away.

Backgrounds of Adams County
By B. F. MACPHERSON
No. 168 — The Methodist Cemetery
ALL through this week the local Methodist congregation has been celebrating the 150 years of its existence in what is now Adams county. Much has been said and written regarding the history of the years that are past and gone. One very important part of the history pertains to the Methodist churchyard back of the building now known as the G.A.R. post room on East Middle street. It is interesting to note that this is the only remaining churchyard in Gettysburg proper. For many years this graveyard was in a deplorable condition, used mainly as an ash pile and rubbish ground, but during the past few months, due to the efforts of the present custodian of the building, the ground has been cleared and the fences repaired. On our last visit to this site we were astonished to see the change that had taken place.

Since the ground work of history is grounded in the lives of the people it follows that the burial ground, if there be one, connected to a church will tell much of its history. This being the base, let us consider the Methodist churchyard.

The first marker to attract our attention was erected to the memory of a baby boy. The inscription follows:
"Rich. J. Watson
Son of
Rev. R. Bond
Died
Sept. 9, 1835
aged 7 weeks."

This little boy was the son of the Rev. Richard Bond who, during the year 1835, was the pastor of the local Methodist congregation.
One of the early surveyors of this county was Samuel Sloan, whose grave is to be found in this cemetery. The inscription follows:
"In memory of
Samuel Sloan
who departed this life April 13, 1832. Aged 39 years, 7 months, and 5 days."

Jane, the daughter of Samuel Sloan, was the first wife of Dr. Jesse Gilbert. Jane Sloan Gilbert died while still quite young and her grave, together with that of her baby daughter who also was named Jane Gilbert, is to be found, beside Samuel Sloan's, in this cemetery.

Wolframite
Little Mentioned Metal Needed Also Alloy
in Making of Tools

President Roosevelt answered Japan's formal recognition of the Wang Ching-wei regime, the other day, with an outright credit of $100,000,000 to China and a contract to purchase from the Chinese $60,000,000 worth of wolframite, antimony, and tin for the national defense program.

Antimony and wolframite are two important metals used in the munitions industry in war times, especially since the World war. Antimony's chief use is in the making of alloys and in the manufacture of shrapnel, shells and bullets, which require about 12 per cent of antimony in antimonial lead. It is also used as a retarding agent in priming caps. Wolframite ore is the chief source of tungsten, required in the manufacture of high-speed and other special steels for the tool industry, an important factor in the manufacture of munitions.

The wolframite, tin and antimony will be purchased by the Metal Reserve company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, from the National Resources Commission of China. A large part of these metals will move over the Burma road, opened by the British government following the signing of the Italo-German-Japanese tripartite pact last September.

Capital Hears Hughes
Plans to Quit Court

The Washington Times Herald printed a story Tuesday that Chief Justice Hughes would retire shortly after the inauguration of President Roosevelt.

Hughes will be 79 next April.
The newspaper said he told the President some days ago that he wished to retire. The President asked him, according to the newspaper, to remain until after inauguration, Jan. 20. He will thus administer the oath of office, as at the two previous inaugurations.
In accordance with fixed custom forbidding Supreme Court Justices to comment on such news reports, Hughes declined to discuss the matter.

The Times Herald said the President planned to designate Attorney General Jackson as the new Chief Justice, with Solicitor General
Francis Biddle succeeding Jackson.
If this occurs, Roosevelt will have six appointees on the bench.

"In memory of

AFTER the death of his first wife
Dr. Jesse Gilbert married second on October 14, 1834, Elizabeth Forney (December 12, 1812—February 19, 1858), a daughter of Samuel S. and Eliza (Swope) Forney. Dr. Gilbert died on August 28, 1938 and his widow later married Edward B.
Buehler, an attorney who practiced his profession in Gettysburg. Dr.
Gilbert is buried in the S. S. Forney family plot in the Evergreen cemetery.

About the middle of this plot we find the grave of Daniel Baldwin (1805—February 16, 1851). Daniel Baldwin married Martha, the widow of James Guinn. Martha Guinn
Baldwin was born in 1790 and died March 18, 1863. We rather believe that Martha Baldwin's first husband is buried in this plot in an unmarked grave, for we find a marked grave with a stone bearing the following inscription:

"John Davis
Son of James and Martha
Guinn
Died Oct. 19th 1839 Aged 16 years."

Evidently this is the Guinn family plot and Martha Guinn Baldwin buried her second husband there.
We could write many pages about this interesting burial plot, although comparatively little is known about its history. We do not know the name of the first person buried there, but we do know that it was abandoned as a place of burial soon after the Evergreen cemetery was established for that purpose.
According to the still remaining markers, members of the Nixon, Smyser, Baldwin, Echer, Bowen, Allison, Bond, Barket, Hoffman, Young, Guinn, Culp, Gilbert, Little,
Whitmore, Stough, Bartell, Sloan,
Wenk, Hart, Baltzley, Bentley, Trusli, Hurley, Woods, Rouzer and Martin families originally buried in this plot. Of course we cannot estimate the number of unmarked graves in this cemetery. Probably if the names of these people were known, our list could be greatly enlarged.

STATE'S ALIEN
REGISTRATION
LAW DEFENDED

U.S. Supreme Court
Will Decide Status
of the Act

Harrisburg, Dec. 7 (AP)—The chairman of Pennsylvania's Liquor Control board, because of familiarity with the State Alien Registration law which never became effective, will defend the act before the United States supreme court on Monday.

William S. Rial, Westmoreland county attorney whose versatile career has led him from the state senate to the attorney general's staff, to the Liquor Control board chairmanship, argued the case before the Federal court in Scranton 14 months ago, and prepared thousands of words in defense of the law to enroll the state's 300,000 non-citizens.

Declared Unconstitutional in 1939
The Federal court ruled, on the eve of the act's effective date, December 1, 1939, that it was unconstitutional and invaded the field of Federal jurisdiction.

In the meantime, the congress enacted a Federal Registration law.
Rial, since then named to the Liquor Control post, emphasized the value of such registration in combating "fifth columns" and Un-American activities.

new material during the last year the number of unknown soldiers buried in the county has been reduced from 67 to 28. Approximately 30 pages of the text of records of the war veterans has been rewritten as a result of the new discoveries, Doctor Stewart added.
The number of graves in the county in which Civil War veterans are buried is 67, the report noted. For 46 of these cemeteries, an increase of four over last year, the records are complete. A total of 1,451 graves have been recorded. The percentage of records now available was given at 97.59. The possible percentage, eliminating soldiers for whom it is absolutely impossible to find records was given as 99.45 leaving only 1.86 per cent of the work to be completed to have every possible grave recorded.

Other business of Friday night's meeting included a report on the activities of the Lincoln's Speech Day program, held November 17.
The report was read by William Meals, camp secretary. An inspection of the camp was conducted by Captain John A. Ruggles, Carlisle, district inspector. Commander W.
Preston Hull presided at the meet-

EXPECT STATE'S ROAD TOLL TO EXCEED 2,100

Only Twice Before
Have Traffic Deaths
Been Higher

Harrisburg, Dec. 7 (AP) — Pennsylvania's highway-death record for 1940 may be "one of the worst" in the state's history, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation predicted today.

"On the basis of state and national trends thus far, the prospect is that Pennsylvania's final traffic fatality total for 1940 will reach or pass the 2,100 mark," the federation asserted in a statement.

"Only twice in the history of the state have traffic deaths reached that appalling total—in 1936, when 2,411 persons were killed and in 1937 when 2,372 lost their lives."

Commissioner Lynn G. Adams of the state motor police said, that up to December 3, the state has had 1,827 deaths from auto accidents, emphasizing the increase in cities and towns overbalanced a reduction in accidents outside municipal boundaries.

The federation corroborated this and declared that "only a sudden and complete reversal of current trends, coupled with intensive law enforcement and accident-prevention activity by municipal authorities can keep 1940 from being among the blackest pages in Pennsylvania's highway accident records."

The accident trend is mounting "sharply" throughout the nation, the federation said. It attributed the rise to "the increasing volume of traffic on the road and the more extensive use of motor vehicles under improving business and economic conditions."

C. M. Wilhelm, deputy commissioner of the state police, said the figures indicated "there is room for improvement" in the safety campaigns of the commonwealth on a state-wide and local basis.

In 1940 to date, there have been 976 fatalities in the rural areas and 851 in the cities and boroughs. This compares with 992 rural and 717 city in 1939.

DISPUTES STOP SAWMILLS ON PACIFIC COAST

Defense Production
Delayed by 12,000
Strikers

Seattle, Dec. 7 (AP)—More than 40 lumber operations in western Washington were closed today by labor disputes in an industry deemed important in national defense expansion.

Ten plants were closed in Seattle yesterday, while the 19th closure at Tacoma brought complete paralysis to that lumber capital's sawmill operations.

Six mills were closed at Everett, one each at two smaller communities, and five logging operations were listed as closed. Nearly 12,000 workers are involved.

The AFL lumber and sawmill workers' union effected the closures in its demand for a pay increase from a minimum of 62½ cents hourly to 70 cents, and a week's vacation with pay.

The Seattle mills were closed without the employees striking. They refused to pass picket lines set up by union members from Everett and Tacoma, who contended the Seattle mills were getting business that would be going to the other plants if they were not struck.

The first paper mill in America was built in 1690 on the banks of Wissahickon Creek near Philadelphia.

Death in Electric Chair Decreed for W. J. Earnest

Norristown, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP) — A jury has decreed that William J. Earnest must die in the electric chair for the brutal bludgeoning of Mrs. Ethel Atkins, once married to a member of the multi-millionaire Duke tobacco family.

Seven men and five women returned a first degree murder verdict, specifically recommending the death penalty, after deliberating almost five hours Thursday night.

Earnest, who in a hysterical outburst on the witness stand, had cried "I hit her. I hit her, don't ask me again," partially collapsed as the verdict was read.

Sobbing, he listened while the jury was polled, and his counsel asked for and was granted the usual five days to present arguments for a new trial.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By Medora Field

YESTERDAY: Lieutenant Gregory of the Atlanta police is examining everybody in Sally and Bill's old country house in an effort to trace the person who murdered Aunt Maggie the night before. Meanwhile Sally, by accident, has learned three interesting things: a young negro was on the place late the day before; a piece of wire cut from the telephone line has turned up in one of the guest's wastebasket, and a Mr. Jamieson phones that a man in a convertible coupe asked the way to the house the day before.

Chapter 27
STYMIED
EVIDENTLY Andrew had talked a good deal, or maybe the news had just got around, for Mr. Jamieson knew of the fake telephone call and the fact that the rest of us did not arrive until late afternoon. He described the man as being dark-haired and dark-eyed and said that he believed he would recognize him. Unfortunately he did not take the license number. Mr. Jamieson seemed all too willing to continue the conversation, hoping, no doubt, to learn further details of the morning's events, but I thanked him and hung up.

The description fitted Kirk, even to the convertible coupe. Though, of course, there are plenty of dark-haired and dark-eyed men and convertible coupes.

I called Dr. Grace and, after offering his services in any way that he needed, he gave me the telephone number of his young assistant, Dr. Martin Bates. But this gentleman was not at home and his wife had no idea when he would return. He was on an obstetrical case out in the country, she said, and there was no near-by telephone, but she promised to have him call as soon as she heard from him.

Next I called my own home in town. I wanted to ask Bill's mother, who had come over to spend the week end with little Sally and the nurse, whether she had talked to anyone who might have called me on the telephone Saturday morning.

But Julia, the nurse, had taken all calls, she told me, and Julia was accordingly put on the wire. "Yes," Julia remembered. "They were a man called. He wanted to know where you was and I told him you was going to the Baltimore to get your hair fixed and he said he would call you there. Not a minute later he called back and didn't recognize his voice. Andrew most generally answers the telephone and he might know."

But since Andrew had not been at home to take the call, naturally did not get us very far. "Were there any other calls?"

"A lady wanted to know where you was, too, and I told her, but she didn't give me name."

"Do you think you would recognize the voices if you heard them again?"

"I couldn't say for sure, Miss Sally. I might remember the lady. She talked in a sort of dress-up way."

"Eve, of course. Talking to a servant after what she imagined to be the manner of a great lady. But who could the other call have come from?"

Bill's mother had already notified the servants at Aunt Maggie's house of what had happened the night before. I waited on the line while Minnie, her maid, went to make sure about the pearls.

"Yes, they in her little safe in the wall," she reported. "Miss Maggie always said it was bad luck when she forgot 'em. Oh, Miss Sally, seems like I can't stand it with Miss Maggie gone."

Then Andrew was at my shoulder, saying "Miss Sally, the dead wagon, I mean the ambulance, done come for Miss Maggie." I forgot all about the piece of wire and left it hanging on the telephone.

Eve At Her Worst
Whatever else had happened or might happen, the lunch gone soured the same. I sat down at the table, wondering whether I had been taken in too easily by Thomas and his story of Epiralm's illness. How did I know Epiralm was as sick as Thomas made out? Even now he might be making good his escape.

If I had only been able to reach Dr. Bates by telephone. If I had only had an opportunity to speak to Bill, who now sat the length of the table away from me, separated by the flickering flames of the candles which had been lit because of the all-pervading gloom of the weather.

There were candles burning on the sideboards too, with their silver dishes of food, but Andrew would not be there to pass these dishes. Lieutenant Gregory had asked if he and his assistants might be served separately in the breakfast room.

"This will give us time to check up on where we stand," he had said, "and I can question the servants. I'd like to start with the butler. After lunch I'll interview the guests individually."

I thought it a little unfortunate that he should choose this particular time to put Andrew through the third degree. Andrew was not only needed elsewhere, but goodness knew what might happen to my cherished old Spode if Lieutenant Gregory were to be too casual in his questioning.

As Thomas blundered around the table, I strained my ears for the sound of the telephone bell, knowing all the time it would be far too soon to be expecting a call from Dr. Bates. Then I remembered the telephone wire. What on earth had I done with it? Oh, yes, the telephone clerk.

"Landy," I said, as she passed hot Sally Lunz muffins which were only a shade too brown on top, "ask Bessie to step in here when she can."

Bessie came, and as I whispered instructions about the telephone her skittish glances at Eve made it all too plain that here was her choice as to which of the two candidates for the electric chair. I wondered if she could be right.

If Eve, now being so consciously charming to Mr. Dodson, really possessed any knowledge, she might be right. And if that knowledge involved someone else now seated at this table.

With these thoughts in mind, I was more than a little startled when Mr. Dodson, seated on my left, asked in a low tone if all our guests were assembled in the dining room.

"Yes," I told him, "that's as you know, Mr. Dodson. Do you know, on her other side is Bob Dunbar and just below Bob is Claire Harper, seated on the right of my husband, who is at the end. On Bill's left is Kirk Pierce and between Kirk and Mr. Marshall is Alice Dunbar, Bob's sister."

"Thank you," he murmured, "that will help to give me a little preliminary line-up on the situation."

"Line-up, indeed," caroled Eve, who apparently had overheard Mr. Dodson's remark. "He is the most amazing man, Sally. Do you know, he just now told me the color of my hair and eyes?"

Mr. Dodson chuckled. "That is fairly simple," he declared. "I don't always give knowledge, but radio tests, for instance, have shown that the voice has a great deal to do with personality and coloring. In one of these tests listeners were asked to describe speakers they had never seen, and a majority of the descriptions were fairly accurate. As I recall, listeners have also identified photographs by voices, with a fair average on the credit side."

By way of making conversation when Eve turned again to Bob, I asked Mr. Dodson, "In a case such as this, would ordinary table talk be what shall I say—revealing?"

I had not really sought information and the gravity of his reply rather gave me pause. "Yes," he said, "sometimes."

"But how?" I asked, my entire attention now engaged, and I lowered my voice quite unnecessarily, for Eve was being vivacious for the benefit of the table at large. "Is it a note in the voice? Frigidity, desperation, defiance—what is it?"

"Ah, but that I cannot tell you. It may be something that is said. Some statement, you know. It may be a laugh. It may be no more than a nuance—an overtone, perhaps. There may be nothing at all. One can only listen and hope. One can only encourage conversation."

Strained Situation
So I sat and tried to listen with ears attuned differently from my usual bent. Tried to listen as if I imagined Mr. Dodson was listening. Tried to see myself and my guests as he was seeing us, without the aid of eyesight and from sound alone.

Eve, it appeared, was being charming to everyone. I thought it a pity that Mr. Dodson could not see her in her slinky black erpe and pearls, since she was so obviously putting herself out for his benefit. She herself had chosen to sit next to him, but perhaps that was only because Bob was on her other side.

Quite unnecessarily, she was arranging Mr. Dodson's food for him, making sandwiches and serving his plate, for when it pleased her to take thought of others, she must have her way. Under cover of conversation ostensibly general, she was using Claire and Bob as targets, leaving them now and then to return to Mr. Dodson, as though his welfare and interest were her chief concern.

He was plainly flattered, as any man is when a woman exerts herself to be attractive to him, but it was also plain from the half-smile that hovered around his mouth that he was in no way taken in.

All the men looked a little grim, but it seemed to me there was reason enough for this, aside from the murder. Bill, with his black eye resulting from that hit-and-run encounter in the dark hall. The two triangles raving out from the engagement of Claire and Bob. Although I was certain Bob did not know Kirk an actual rival, I knew he was none too easy in his mind about Eve. How much claim Eve had, I could not guess, nor how much it meant to Bob.

Everyone seemed to be making a desperate effort to talk without mentioning the things uppermost in everybody's mind. Someone had struck on food as a safe subject. Kirk, bent on helping along the makeshift conversation, was saying that the best place to lose all your illusions about Southern cooking is in the South.

good many slaves although the hill country does not really approve of slavery.

But Sapphira, the miller's wife, inherited the slaves and Henry Colbert, her husband has become reconciled to their situation. It was the general impression that Sapphira had come down a peg when she married, although in her odd way she has been happy in the marriage. And so has her husband.

Now Miss Cather begins the difficult part of her job. Sapphira has a slave girl Nancy, and Nancy is a mulatto who comes to bloom just as her mistress is made helpless with dropsy. Nancy cares for Henry Colbert's room at the mill, and Sapphira makes the obvious deduction when she sees how interested her husband is in the girl. The deduction is wrong, but it leads to a great many unfortunate things and eventually something good, which is Nancy's escape.

Miss Cather has done quite marvelous things with her odd triangle. She has expressed the bitterness of Sapphira's persecution of Nancy, without destroying the reader's respect for the mistress. She also has made her reader understand that this situation, like most others of its sort, could have been resolved simply had anybody thought to say the proper words. She has made the negroes on the Colbert place individuals of importance without caricaturing them, and she has remained true to life by making it clear that all her people are, like most people in life, somewhere between the extremes of good and bad.

of the tower windows and saw the strangest sight.

There were hundreds of people standing along the roads. There were other hundreds tramping around the fields shooting birds with sling shots. They could see still other hundreds hauling rocks down the road past the castle and out beyond the town.

"Whatever can have happened?" whispered the heart-broken Queen. "The people look bewitched. No one laughs, or even smiles."

Karin suddenly had the idea of looking at her pearl. It had always puzzled them. Now, Karin thought, if the pearl had any magic spell it might help. So she reached into the silver casket and held out the pearl between her thumb and forefinger. There they saw a little scene. In front stood an old bent woman weeping very hard. Behind her in the sun was a young woman dancing and laughing.

The good gray Queen smiled. "That means sunshine after a storm, my child. Let us have patience. We shall stay here. But I wonder what has happened."

You and I know what has happened. The people had all awakened that Christmas morning. The mothers had started breakfast and the oldest sons had gone to the wells for water. At breakfast the people drank the water which had been bewitched the night before by the three giants.

CAR FACTORIES WILL BE USED TO MAKE PLANES

40,000 Output Yearly Expected by U.S. in 1942

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Prospective use of automobile factories in the manufacture of military aircraft today boosted to 40,000 planes a year the production rate which defense officials expect to attain sometime in 1942.

Four huge plants to assemble into finished units airplane parts made in motor car factories are to be constructed west of the Mississippi river, under plans of the War Department and Defense commission. Sites for two with a combined capacity of 2,400 medium two-motor bombers a year were announced yesterday. One will be built at Kansas City and operated by North American Aviation Corp., and the other at Omaha, Nebraska, operated by Martin company.

The other two plants planned, it was reported, will turn out four-motor bombers at the rate of 1,200 a year. The locations of these two were not announced but it was understood that one site at Tulsa, Oklahoma, was under consideration. Officials estimated that 15 months would be required to get the new assembly factories into mass production. Their output, it was explained, will be in addition to that of regular airplane factories, expanding now toward a production rate of 36,000 planes a year by early 1942.

Disclosure of the aircraft production plans topped off a day of defense developments which included an announcement that naval construction was turning out a new ship for the fleet every 12 days although navy yards still were short of peak efficiency.

Increased costs in construction of naval shore stations and army posts were reported, meanwhile, in other authoritative quarters, and some officials privately expressed belief the increase might run as much as 20 to 25 per cent over the $2,000,000,000 estimate originally fixed for this work.

The navy, it was learned, is preparing to ask congress for additional funds.

Officials said the increases resulted chiefly from advances in wage scale and often higher material prices, with payments of overtime rates in some instances as a contributing factor.

Methods of financing the current cost of the defense program were discussed by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau at a conference with Chairman Harrison (D-Mississippi) and other members of the Senate Finance committee.

Morgenthau advised the senators that a forthcoming issue of defense notes would be held to $500,000,000.

Boltz Is Indicted by U.S. Jury on 21 Counts
Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Federal government instigated a nation-wide search today for Robert J. Boltz, 53-year-old investment counselor to whom, a state official said, clients had entrusted $2,500,000.

Boltz was indicted on 21 counts yesterday by a Federal grand jury which for three days had heard witnesses, many prominent in the city's social and business life. He was charged specifically with the use of the mails to defraud and for failure to register with the securities and exchange commission.

SPEEDS TO CHILE

Miami, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—An over-water hop to Panama was laid out today for a United States Army bomber speeding a former first lady of Chile to her native land in an effort to save her life. Cause for cheer aboard the four-motored craft came from a report that Senora Carlos Davila, wife of the one-time president of Chile, withstood "remarkably well" a six-hour flight from New York yesterday. As a result of President Roosevelt's intervention, Senora Davila is scheduled to arrive Monday at Santiago, Chile, where physicians say she has a chance to rally in the mild climate and familiar surroundings from a serious illness which two operations failed to cure.

SMOKED HIM OUT

Pittsburgh, Dec. 7 (AP)—Winning an uncontested divorce, Harry L. Davis blamed the break-up of his marriage on his wife's cigarette smoking. He testified she once blew smoke into his face at their Christmas dinner.

 AMUSEMENTS: HERE AND THERE

NEXT WEEK AT THE MAJESTIC
 Monday and Tuesday — "BITTER SWEET"
 Wednesday — "THE GREAT MGINTY"
 Thursday — "YOUTH WILL BE SERVED"
 Friday and Saturday — "TIN PAN ALLEY"

Jeanette McDonald and Nelson Eddy as they appear in "Bitter Sweet," filmization of brilliant Noel Coward operetta.

PARAMOUNT'S "The Great McGinty" will reveal the real Akim Tamiroff for the first time on any screen.

In all previous pictures he has adorned himself with whiskers, moustache or various putty facial protuberances. For "The Great McGinty," however, Tamiroff reversed the usual procedure. To enact the part of a political boss opposing Brian Donlevy, he had to shave off a moustache.

A technical film of Ownes creek, famous trout stream near Emmitsburg, will be shown at the Majestic next Tuesday.

SCENES with snakes and alligators didn't phase Jane Withers during the filming of her latest starring picture for 20th Century - Fox, "Youth Will Be Served." But, when romance crept into the script, Jane's composure fled.

Jane was required to do a scene in a jungle which was to suggest a budding romantic interest in Joe Brown, Jr., but her blushes and giggles caused several retakes.

Bud Codori and his orchestra will present a program on the stage of the Majestic next Wednesday from 9 to 9:30 p. m. Arlene Spangler, of Gettysburg, is the featured vocalist with the band.

"TIN PAN ALLEY" Screenplay by Robert Ellis and Helen Logan from story by Pamela Harris. Directed by Walter Lang. Principals: Alice Faye, Betty Grable, Jack Oakie, John Payne, Allen Jenkins, Esther Ralston, Nicholas Brothers, Ben Carter and John Loder.

Jack Oakie, whose career hit a dead end a couple of years ago, went to work with Charlie Chaplin. After the experience, he said he had "learned things." He had—and "Tin Pan Alley" proves it more than ever. His comedy sense, his timing, his working of an expressive mug, have a new sureness, and Zanuck's new experiment in nostalgia is something of a personal Oakie triumph.

"Tin Pan Alley," of course, is more than that. It's a jamore on the "Alexander's Ragtime Band" order, an extravagant necklace of entertainment strung around a story no better—but no worse—than it needs to be. Faye and Grable are a sister act in vaudeville; Payne and Oakie are struggling song publishers in the "Alley" of 1915-17. Payne and Faye are "boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl." Faye and Grable sing and dance several times—several times displaying more than their voices and steps in pleasantly scanty costume. Faye sings better than Grable, who dances better than Faye. The combination is good. Payne shows more ease than usual in the singing, romantic spot.

There is one new song—sung too much—besides the revivals: "On Moonlight Bay," "Honey-Suckle Rose," "America, I Love You," "K-k-k-Katy," "Goodbye Broadway, Hello France," etc. If you remember when they were hits (or even if you don't) they'll get you."

"Young Bill Hickock" will be shown at the Strand next Saturday. The film features Roy Rogers and George "Windy" Hayes.

MOVIES coming to the Majestic during the week of December 16 follow:

Monday and Tuesday—"Rangers of Fortune," with Fred MacMurray and Patricia Morrison.

Wednesday—"Quarterback," with Wayne Morris and Virginia Dale.

Thursday—"Dispatch From Reuters," with Edward G. Robinson.

Friday and Saturday—"Moon Over Burma," with Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston.

Surprises His Wife By Admission of $35,000 Embezzlement

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Doe are sharing a new secret today.

It came out when Mr. Doe was enrolling under the alien registration act. Mrs. Doe, standing beside him, had heard him give routine answers until the clerk came to question No. 14.

Clerk: Have you ever been arrested, indicted or convicted of any offense?

Mr. Doe: Well, no. Not unless you include small thinks like petty larceny.

Clerk: We've got to put it all down. What was the offense?

Mr. Doe: Oh, I took a little money from my boss.

Clerk: How much?

Mr. Doe: It doesn't make any difference. It didn't amount to anything really.

Clerk: We've got to know the amount. If it was less than $100, it was petty larceny. If it was more it was grand larceny.

Mr. Doe: They didn't call it either. They referred to it as embezzlement. (Mrs. Doe has turned white.)

Clerk: Come on, what was the amount?

Mr. Doe: Thirty-five thousand dollars.

Mrs. Doe: (Uttering a shrill cry) Why, you never told me anything about that!

Mr. Doe: I know dear. (Soothingly) I really didn't do it. That's why I didn't tell you. I'm innocent.

Clerk: What disposition did the court make of your case?

Mr. Doe: (Glaring at her husband) I might have known it. Now we're ruined. Everybody will find out.

Clerk: Not unless one of you tell. Our records are secret.

(Business of answering remaining questions continues uneventfully. Exit Mr. and Mrs. Doe, neither speaking to the other.)

Alcatraz Guards Watch
Convicts in Heavy Fog

San Francisco, Dec. 7 (AP) — Warden James A. Johnston and his corps of guards waited hopefully on fog-bound Alcatraz island Friday for a break in the weather to end their strained watchfulness over three hundred of the nation's worst criminals.

For two nights and a day—ever since one of the year's heaviest fogs rolled in Wednesday—all of the convicts have been kept locked in their cells.

Authorities feared escape attempts or some possible violence among the inmates, keyed up by a convict killing and a prisoners' strike.

Although the general lock-up obviated any escapes—such as the still unsolved 1937 disappearance of convict Ralph Roe and Ted Cole from Alcatraz during a heavy fog—the tension persisted.

Idle convicts paced the floors. Outside the prison, fog horns belled and ships' bells and whistles and other navigational aids sounded a continuous din on San Francisco bay.

SELF-REGULATION ADVISED

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 7 (AP) — The healthy growth of the liquor industry depends on obedience to the liquor laws "mixed with respect for public opinion," says Thomas D. Frye, executive secretary of the liquor control board. Frye advised the Lehigh county clubmen's association to "strive with all your intelligence and with every ounce of energy you possess to win public acceptance through perfect conduct of your business."

IT'S THE ARMY NOW

Harrisburg, Dec. 7 (AP) — Former service in the Navy or the Marine corps won't exempt men from a year's military training under the selective service act, Governor James has been advised by national headquarters. Army men who have served three years are exempt. Those who have been in the other services may enroll for the reserves in those branches, James pointed out.

M. S. HERSHEY RE-ELECTED

M. S. Hershey was re-elected president of the York Springs school board at its regular monthly meeting held this week. Lloyd Lory, also was re-elected to serve as vice president. Other officers of the board are: Secretary, the Rev. Lester M. Utz, and treasurer, H. C. Myers. The fifth member of the board is C. F. Ditzler.
